Sarcasm can be seen in everyday conversation. Sometimes, sarcasm is meant to be funny and sometimes it can be viewed as a form of bullying. If we don't understand when someone is being sarcastic it can lead to us getting in trouble or finding ourselves in a dangerous situation. It is important we are able to identify when someone is being serious versus sarcastic.

Jane is telling Sarah that it is okay if she cuts the cake before singing Happy Birthday. Sarah questions Jane but Jane convinces Sarah to do it. The rest of Sarah's friends stand by and watch. How can we tell Jane is being sarcastic?

How do you think this made Sarah feel?

Before Sarah cuts the cake, what could one of the other friends say to warn Sarah that Jane was being sarcastic and not serious?
